people get divorced for good reasons while there were huge increases in divorce after divorce is legalized or becomes more easily available that change in the law itself is not even necessarily the trigger although it s debated what is sometimes blamed the trigger for the u s increase in divorce is the availability of a no fault divorces that s when some argue the rates skyrocketed but in that critique there s an embedded presumption that the divorces are really no fault and that the couples who get them are taking the easy way out when in fact that really may not be the case i ll admit that s an understandable reaction if you just look at the timeline on divorce you might disapprove of the number of divorces in general but then think about your friend who got divorced think about your own divorce because in critiques of the rising numbers of divorces we forget that divorces aren t numbers they are relationships people get divorced for really good reasons for example from 20 to 30 percent of divorced marriages involved domestic violence separated and divorced women are 14 times more likely to report that they ve been victims of violence in canada found that 50 percent of divorced women there had been abuse victims it used to be that wife beating wasn't a reason to leave your husband wife in some cultures it still isn't and in case we think those cultures are so distant it wasn't until 1992 that the U.S. Catholic bishops issued a statement that women didn't have to stay married in an abusive relationship because Catholic wives thought or were being told that they had to stay and save their marriage once you start adding in infidelity alcohol and drug abuse the idea that divorces are really no fault becomes a farce yes of course there are the opportunist divorces as well but how would we protect those with real reasons to divorce without getting them too what's the alternative this is a must read page if you want to understand how the book is written i am writing this book not to be perfect but to be helpful the best way to understand the book is to think of each chapter as an individual story or lesson learned in fact the best way to use it is to either just open up to a page or look at the index to find the subject for which you are looking nothing in this book is theory i actually experienced everything i am one of those people who failed their way forward in life until i finally became the person of whom i am proud i have intentionally not gone into minute detail because i want you to read it think about it and come to your own conclusion someone who has written a book has always held a place of awe with me because of my own experiences and highly limited beliefs it never dawned on me that i could write a book this all changed when i came down with a dose of cancer and started throwing off all the anchors holding me as a person down all of a sudden the book was just for me it didn't have to look or feel a certain way and i didn't care if a single book was ever sold i just wanted to be an author and here is the result i sincerely hope you enjoy and learn from my own journey through the years experiences are good and bad just that they are something i went through learned from and survived however by sharing these experiences and allowing people to learn from them i give them value Randy Morrow
