longhorn beetles cerambycidae are one of the most easily recognised groups of beetles a family that worldwide encompasses over 33 000 species in 5200 genera with over 1400 species classified in 300 genera this is the sixth largest among 117 beetle families in australia these beetles often attack and kill living forest or orchard trees and develop in construction timber like the european house borer introduced to wa causing serious damage virtually all cerambycidae feed on living or dead plant tissues and play a significant role in all terrestrial environments where plants are found larvae often utilise damaged or dead trees for their development and through feeding on rotten wood form an important element of the saproxylic fauna speeding energy circulation in these habitats many species are listed as quarantine pests because of their destructive role to the timber industry this second of three volumes on australian longhorn beetles covers the taxonomy of genera of the cerambycinae with comments on natural history and morphology one hundred and forty two cerambycinae genera are diagnosed and described an illustrated key to their identification is provided and images illustrate representatives of genera and of actual type specimens a full listing of all australian species with synonymies and bibliographic citations is also included the coffin published in this book represents a type that had some popularity in southern upper egypt in the early middle kingdom but which despite its extraordinary decoration had not attracted attention so far the most striking feature of the decoration is that the object friezes the pictorial rendering of ritual implements usually found on coffin interiors of the period also include complete ritual scenes some of which are attested only here apart from this the decoration includes an extensive selection of the religious texts know as the coffin texts the author first studies the archaeological context and dating of the coffin and attempts a reconstruction of the construction procedures from his technical description of the monument the detailed account of the decoration in the rest of the book interprets the ritual iconography and offers fresh translations and interpretations of the coffin texts a methodological innovation is that he regards the scenes and texts not as individual decoration elements but as components of an integral composition the background of this composition is argued to be a view of life in the hereafter in which the deceased is involved in an unending cycle of ritual action which reflects the funerary rituals that were actually performed on earth on the one hand these netherworldly rituals aim at bringing the deceased to new life by mummification on the other the newly regenerated deceased partakes in embalming rituals for gods representing his dead father osiris or atum these gods in their turn effectuate the deceased s regeneration the entire process results in a cycle of resuscitation in which the afterlife of the deceased and of the father gods are interdependent the sociological bias of this interpretation with its emphasis on kinship relations differs significantly from earlier attempts to explain egyptian funerary religion now that photoshop 5 is finally here it's time to get up to speed on all that's new and improved in the latest version of the world's most powerful and sophisticated image editing program that's a pretty tall order so where do you start how about with the updated version of the most comprehensive photoshop guide around
