the current revival of interest in ethics in literary criticism coincides fortuitously with a revival of interest in love in philosophy the literary return to ethics also coincides with a spate of neuroscientific discoveries about cognition and emotion but without a philosophical grounding this new work cannot speak convincingly about literature's relationship to our ethical lives. Jean-Luc Marion's articulation of a phenomenology of love provides this philosophical grounding. The phenomenology of love and reading accepts Jean-Luc Marion's argument that love matters for who we are more than anything more than cognition and more than being itself. Cassandra Falke shows how reading can strengthen our capacity to love by giving us practice in love's habits: attention, empathy, and a willingness to be overwhelmed, confounding our expectations. Literature equips us for the confounding events of love which Falke suggests are not rare and fleeting but rather constitute the most meaningful and durable part of our everyday life.

America's leading expert on love and relationships writes with insight and clarity on the meaning of love, offering readers a welcome opportunity each day to reflect on the love in their lives. Kingma exults in love's power to change us, to help us grow emotionally and spiritually, and explores love's many faceted possibilities. 365 line drawings.

A Christian life, the journal of love and faith are weekly blogs that I write as part of the being40plus online magazine. In my passion to spread God's word, I've decided to put these blogs together as mini-journals. I not only want to help spread God's good word but I also desire to help others or non-believers know and understand how we as Christians should live in order to live the promised life: a better, more abundantly filled and happier life given to us by God. But in order to obtain the fulfillment of God's promises, we must choose to surrender to His will and completely trust in Him. He loves us abundantly, unconditionally, and more importantly, His love never fails.

reports announcing the death of the book are now rife, but the continued relevance of the ten master writers discussed in this volume is proof to the contrary. Here we come across the dissident Czech writer Václav Havel, who later became the nation's president; the South African Nobel laureate Nadine Gordimer with her pronounced anti-apartheid novels; the Chilean-American Isabel Allende; the world's most widely read Spanish author and Günter Grass, hailed as the literary spokesman of his generation. We also meet Graham Greene and Milan Kundera alongside the Egyptian Naguib Mahfouz, who in his quiet way ridiculed Islamic fundamentalism. The book is rounded off with three remarkable Latin American writers: Pablo Neruda, Octavio Paz, and Gabriel García Márquez. Of Love and Other Sorrows takes the reader on a fascinating journey in the company of some of the biggest names in modern literature. This illuminating study of their lives and works will seduce readers to rediscover these masters for themselves. when tulsi first meets madhav she is irrevocably drawn to his chiselled good looks and charm although wary of his many dalliances and the string of broken hearts left in his wake she is surprised by the intense desire that madhav arouses in her and before long she forsakes her family her prospective career her fiancé all for the love of this inscrutable man but love can be like poison and nothing can prepare tulsi for the heartache and betrayal that lie ahead years later tulsi escapes to the ancient city of vrindavan seeking redemption amidst the cries and prayers of its anguished widows however when her past catches up with her old wounds resurface with dramatic consequences by turns savage and tender the poison of love is a spellbinding tale of love and sacrifice pain and retribution confirming k r meera as one of our most fearless and accomplished writers
