a collection of first rate frontline journalism from the spanish civil war to us actions in central america by a woman singularly unafraid of guns vanity fair for nearly sixty years martha gellhorn s fearless war correspondence made her a leading journalistic voice of her generation from the spanish civil war in 1937 through the central american wars of the mid eighties gellhorn s candid reporting reflected her deep empathy for people regardless of their political ideology collecting the best of gellhorn s writing on foreign conflicts and now with a new introduction by lauren elkin the face of war is a classic of frontline journalism by the premier war correspondent of the twentieth century ward just the new york times magazine whether in java finland the middle east or vietnam she used the same vigorous approach i wrote very fast as i had to she says afraid that i would forget the exact sound smell words gestures which were special to this moment and this place as merle rubin noted in his review of this volume for the christian science monitor martha gellhorn s courageous independent minded reportage breaks through geopolitical abstractions and ideological propaganda to take the reader straight to the scene of the event during the period before the great change a new nation called liberation is born within america the revolution of racism and hatred that existed before the separation resulted in the largest transformation in the country s history as the world s most beloved country developed a devastating disease of broken promises going from one elected leader to the next the new nation develops on its own struggling to keep corruption out of its highest levels of government in the midst of this the son of an american billionaire is found guilty of numerous violations in liberation resulting in calls for public punishment his wealthy father swears that no one in the country of monkeys as he calls it will lay a hand on his son or else they will suffer meanwhile a politician in liberation who rules the local underworld grows more powerful and more dangerous the mayor of liberation holds the key to keeping his country and america from war working with america s first african american president in this suspenseful novel set in an alternate dystopian world only time will tell whether the two men can work together to bring their nations to peace or whether their nations shadows will destroy the countries from within
