insensitivity to racial issues has long been one of the main causes of controversy in the marketing field among many brands to have caused outrage across social media is the notable brand dove the criticism that the veteran brand received has shown that even experienced marketers can still find themselves being accused of insensitivity or even racism. In 2018, the gaffe of an advertisement released by Dove in 2017 serves as the impetus for the need for diversity in brands. Given today's complex society, the purpose of this study is to identify themes that emerged in Black Twitter's responses to Dove's 2017 Facebook advertisement. Further, the study provides marketers with practical recommendations on how to avoid representational issues in future ads. This research is a thematic analysis of popular tweets which identified emerging themes in Black Twitter's reactions to Dove's ad. The author has chosen to add to the existing literature by examining the problematic issues with Dove's 2017 ad to address the racial issues found in the ad. The following three themes have been identified as themes on Black Twitter: 1. Black buying power, 2. Skin lightening, and 3. Representation.

In recent years, media attention has been placed on Black Twitter, a collective composed primarily of African Americans who have managed to effect change through the microblogging platform Twitter. This collection of users has been credited with injecting uniquely Black concerns and perspectives into the national discourse. However, Black Twitter as an entity has not been theoretically contextualized and grounded in empirical research. In this case study, the author describes how he and his colleague explored this social media phenomenon. The author emphasizes the importance of understanding the way in which Twitter was designed, its architecture, to developing insightful research and choosing appropriate methods. The author discusses: 1. Process of conceptualizing theoretically important ideas and operationalizing them, 2. The considerations involved with sampling, and 3. The use of hierarchical cluster analysis to draw conclusions about Twitter data.
