150 years separate two explorers of africa the englishman john hanning speke and south african sihle khumalo speke set out to discover the source of the Nile and Khumalo to figure out what the hell Speke and men like him were after Khumalo's 2008 journey to central Africa was not without its challenges. First he had to outperform his famous earlier trip and book Dark Continent: My Black Arse. Then he elected to travel as before by public transport only, which in practice often meant more transit and less transport, giving himself a mere four weeks and propelled by a frank fascination with the Victorian explorers. Khumalo set out on a six-pronged quest aiming inter alia to ferry across Lake Tanganyika, stand on the equator in Uganda, bungee jump at the source of the Nile or see if any mountain gorillas were forthcoming. None were, but it was his emotive visit to the memorial centre at Kigali, epicentre of the Rwandan genocide that brought home elemental questions: what is at the heart of Africa? What makes me an African? Where lies my centre heart? Of Africa is the unputdownable account of a journey that seldom went as planned. Khumalo's unfailing eye for the good, the bad and the amusing in Africa, his refreshing candour and his sheer cheek make this book every bit as delightful as its forerunner.

The aim of Sit on Our Hands or Stand on Our Feet is not to present a theology that explains disasters. In fact, there is no such theology, nor is this work primarily for those who are responded to. It is not part of the theological grab bag that Christian responders carry with them to use for the benefit of casualties. It is more a part of the Christian's engaged practical theological apprenticeship. Prior to and during a response, this book represents the role of the practical theologian who empowers the church community's legitimation and contribution in disaster response and who encourages individual Christians whose calling into particularly relevant professions whose natural skills and/or professional training could find them placed in a major incident responding status, paid or voluntary, doing their work as unto the Lord. It is a serious must-read for any Christians who have hearts heavy with compassion but who are not sure what to do or why when disaster strikes.
