movements and social justice to promise downsized and humane jails the principal advocates of these new jails were not right wing politicians but prominent city activists and progressive non profit organizations as the political coalition that campaigned for the new jails fans out across the united states the story at the heart of skyscraper jails is at once a case study and a cautionary tale for what will be coming to cities and towns across the united states and beyond public history for a post truth era explores how to combat historical denial when faith in facts is at an all time low moving beyond memorial museums or documentaries the book shares on the ground stories of participatory public memory movements that brought people together to grapple with the deep roots and current truths of human rights abuses it gives an inside look at sites of conscience around the world and the memory activists unearthing their hidden histories from the soviet gulag to the slave trade in senegal it then follows hundreds of people joining forces across dozens of us cities to fight denial of guantánamo mass incarceration and climate change as reparations proposals proliferate in the us the book is a resource for anyone seeking to confront historical injustices and redress their harms written in accessible non academic language it will appeal to students educators or supportive citizens interested in public history museums or movement organizing
