spanning early christian writings from the gospel of mark to the acts of john this book by vernon robbins explores the various ways early christians explained their understanding of the special nature of jesus beyond the canonical gospels who do people say i am shows how second and third century christian authors of additional gospels and gospel like writings expanded and elaborated on jesus divinity in the context of his earthly existence according to robbins these christian authors thought that the new testament gospel writers could and should have emphasized the divinity of jesus more than they did throughout the book robbins asks and answers questions such as these if jesus introduced new beliefs and practices what did second and third century believers find unresolved in the new testament gospels about those beliefs and practices and how did they try to resolve them what gaps in the storylines of the new testament gospels did second and third century christian writers think could be filled in and how did they fill them in if jesus really were fully divine when he came to earth and lived among his disciples what experiences did his disciples have that the new testament gospels do not tell us learning activities and a bibliography at the end of each chapter help make this book a valuable resource for students and any other interested readers
