this is the first comprehensive study by the world s leading scholars about the political logic of the u s china trade war that started during the trump administration the book is divided into three parts the first part looks at changed leadership styles of the two countries in the last few years it also examines the liberal international order since world war ii in which the trade war emerged it then explores the theoretical perspectives from both the united states and china that are related to the trade war the second part is about the domestic factors that impacted on the trade war from china's perspective these factors include china's institutional adaptation of the new international environment the radicalization of the chinese political discourse and big power diplomacy the third part explores the u.s. domestic factors that impacted the trade war such as the trump administration's different china policy in general the role played by the u.s. congress business lobby and the transition of foreign policy from a wilsonian world order to jacksonian nationalism u.s. china trade negotiations examines the issues concerning the u.s. china trade negotiations by identifying the mechanics of the u.s. china business negotiations such as how a company prepares the negotiations the contributing factors the outcomes and how u.s. companies organize for the china trade the book provides information based on a survey of 138 u.s. firms that are in trade negotiations with the chinese such as import export joint ventures coproduction and processing the text also covers the edited versions of interviews conducted with firms regarding how they prepared for negotiations their experiences and the outcomes of the negotiations the selection will be of great interest to readers who are looking for an insight regarding the inner workings of the u.s. china trade relations outright trade war between the world's two largest economies would be devastating to the working people of both countries as well as destructive to the future of the entire world economy the costs of conflict between china and the united states far outweigh the current causes of dispute in their economic relationship these costs would be both direct in terms of short term losses of growth and employment and indirect in terms of long term damage to the world trading system diminishing investment and efficiency there are points of genuine dispute between the united states and china over their economic interaction even if their economic significance is often exaggerated these are legitimate points of contention and have to be addressed in a constructive manner the analyses in this volume aim to contribute to a more reality based consideration of both countries enlightened self interests which would yield progress on points of dispute in a manner consistent with keeping the world economy open for business the business world has observed another shocking measure taken by the us president to impose 25 tariffs on chinese imports worth usd 150 billion in total to the usa in order to reduce the deficit of us china bilateral trade the counter measure was the quick anti tariff on usd 50 billion us goods to china the net result might be the reduction of bilateral trade between the two countries substantially the most likely conclusion of this country specific impose of tariffs is the substitution of imports from other countries by us importers other than china while the us trade deficit with china might fall and with other countries it will continue to rise meaning the us trade deficit with the rest of the world will not be considerably changed majority of the experts and economists argue that the combined trade deficit with the rest of the world can only be reduced either by increasing the internal demand and meet that demand by local products importing less from outside or simply by exporting more to the other countries as china has the largest market for many consumer and industrial products there is a huge potential for the us to increase its exports like agricultural products energy automobile and services like education and tourism to chinese market the paper aims at discussing the alternatives of imposing tariffs and addressing the concept of reasonable trade the sources of this descriptive paper are the published news articles and information in web the authors are hopeful that this paper will come to the help of academicians wishing to investigate more on this issue and the policy makers of the business world who seek better alternatives of trade war
