The Holy Trinity is the oldest idea of Christian hope. The study of being or ontology was once regarded as a seminal preparation for the study of God as the creative cause of all being in theology. Yet due to a series of theological mistakes, metaphysics came to be separated from the Trinity before God came to be conceived as the supreme being of all beings. In general, metaphysics, natural theology, and modern ontology, the analytic and continental philosophical traditions have since tended to treat the Trinity as at best superfluous and at worst redundant to modern formal ontologies. Yet the postmodern collapse of all such formal ontologies has prepared the path for a renewed study of metaphysics or ontology that shares in participation with the Trinity. New Trinitarian ontologies name a creative response to this pivotal collapse of modern formal ontologies. If ontology cannot contain but rather more radically points to God and if all nature thus tends towards the supernatural, the angelic and the metaphysical, then we should renew the study of the metaphysics or ontology of the Trinity. This volume represents a collection of responses to this challenge of rendering ontology in a Trinitarian style.

The idea that some parts of reality are fundamental and others derivative was an important one in Aristotle's philosophical system and is now again of great current interest in philosophy. Michail Peramatzis presents a new account of priority relations in Aristotle's metaphysics and draws out their continuing philosophical significance.
