from the antics of flavor flav on flavor of love to the brazen behavior of the women on love hip hop so called negative images of african americans are a recurrent mainstay of contemporary american media representations in double negative racquel j gates examines the generative potential of such images showing how some of the most disreputable representations of black people in popular media can strategically pose questions about blackness black culture and american society in ways that more respectable ones cannot rather than falling back on claims that negative portrayals hinder black progress gates demonstrates how reality shows such as basketball wives comedians like Katt Williams and movies like Boyz n the Hood play on negative images to take up questions of assimilation and upward mobility provide a respite from the demands of respectability and explore subversive ideas by using negativity as a framework to illustrate these texts social and political work as they reverberate across black culture gates opens up new lines of inquiry for black cultural studies from the Real Housewives of Atlanta to Flavor of Love reality shows with predominantly black casts have often been criticized for their negative representation of African American women as loud angry and violent yet even as these programs appear to be rehashing old stereotypes of black women the critiques of them are arguably problematic in their own way as the notion of respectability has historically been used to police black women's behaviors the first book of scholarship devoted to the issue of how black women are depicted on reality television Real Sister offers an even handed consideration of the genre the book's ten contributors black female scholars from a variety of disciplines provide a wide range of perspectives while considering everything from Basketball Wives to Say Yes to the Dress as regular viewers of reality television these scholars are able to note ways in which the genre presents positive images of black womanhood even as they catalog a litany of stereotypes about race class and gender that it tends to reinforce rather than simply dismissing reality television as trash this collection takes the genre seriously as an important touchstone in ongoing cultural debates about what constitutes trashiness and respectability written in an accessible style that will appeal to reality TV fans both inside and outside of academia Real Sister thus seeks to inspire a more nuanced thoughtful conversation about the genre's representations and their effects on the black community

Stephen C. Ferguson II provides a philosophical examination of black popular culture for the first time from extensive discussion of the philosophy and political economy of hip hop music through to a developed exploration of the influence of the postmodernism poststructuralist ideology on African American studies he argues how postmodernism ideology plays a seminal role in justifying the relationship between corporate capitalism and black popular culture chapters cover topics such as cultural populism capitalism and black liberation the philosophy of hip hop music and Harold Cruse's influence on the cultural turn in African American studies Ferguson combines case studies of past and contemporary black cultural and intellectual productions with a Marxist ideological critique to provide a cutting edge reflection on the economic structure in which black popular culture emerged he highlights the contradictions that are central to the juxtaposition of black cultural artists as political participants in socioeconomic struggle and the political participants who perform the rigorous task of social criticism adopting capitalism as an explanatory framework Ferguson investigates the relationship between postmodernism as social theory current manifestations of black popular culture and the theoretical work of black thinkers and scholars to demonstrate how African American studies have been shaped
