today interviews proliferate everywhere in newspapers on television and in anthologies as a method they are a major tool of medicine the law the social sciences oral history projects and journalism and in the book trade interviews with authors are a major promotional device we live in an interview society how did this happen what is it about the interview form that we find so appealing and horrifying are we all just gossips or is there something more to it what are the implications of our reliance on this bizarre dynamic for publicity subjectivity and democracy literature and the rise of the interview addresses these questions from the perspective of literary culture the book traces the ways in which the interview form has been conceived and deployed by writers and interviewing has been understood as a literary critical practice it excavates what we might call a poetics of the interview form and practice in so doing it covers 150 years and four continents it includes a diverse rostrum of well known writers such as henry james t s eliot ezra pound djuna barnes william burroughs philip roth j m coetzee and toni morrison while reintroducing some individuals that history has forgotten such as betty ross queen of interviewers and julian hawthorne nathaniel s profligate son together these stories expose the interview s position in the literary imagination and consider what this might tell us about conceptions of literature authorship and reading communities in modernity
