this book will take you into the lives of those dying with a terminal illness and is told through the experiences of the hospice nurse caring for the dying and their loved ones placing a focus on the spiritual needs of death and dying the theme of this book is that the focus of counselling with people who are dying should be on the psychospiritual aspects of death and dying it is based on two assumptions that death and anxiety not pain are the most critical issues for the dying and that the time of dying is an opportunity for growth and transformation the author believes that it is imperative for counselling professionals to realize that at this time understanding and caring are primary

a few months to live describes what dying is like from the perspectives of nine terminally ill individuals and their caregivers documenting a unique study of end of life experiences that included detailed conversations in home care settings the book focuses on how participants lived their daily lives understood their illnesses coped with symptoms especially pain and searched for meaning or spiritual growth in their final months of life the accounts are presented largely in the participants own words illuminating both the medical and non medical challenges that arose from the time each learned the bad news through their final days of life and memorial services describing the nationwide crisis that surrounds end of life care the authors contend that informal caregiving by relatives and close friends is an enormous and too often invisible resource that deserves close and public attention by incorporating not only the ill person s but also the family s perspective they portray the nine participants in the contexts of their daily lives and relationships rather than simply as patients addressing such issues as palliative care quality of life financial hardship grief and loss and communications with medical personnel the authors identify how families professionals and communities can respond to the challenges of terminal illness and the need to confront life s end the renowned radio host and one of the most trusted voices in the nation candidly and compassionately addresses the hotly contested right to die movement of which she is one of our most inspiring champions the basis for the acclaimed pbs series through interviews with terminally ill patients and their relatives as well as physicians ethicists religious leaders and representatives of both those who support and vigorously oppose this urgent movement rehm gives voice to a broad range of people personally linked to the realities of medical aid in dying with characteristic evenhandedness she provides the full context for this highly divisive issue and presents the fervent arguments both for and against that are propelling the current debate should we adopt laws allowing those who are dying to put an end to their suffering featuring a deeply personal foreword by john grisham when my time comes is a response to many misconceptions and misrepresentations of end of life care it is a call to action and to conscience and it is an attempt to heal and soothe reminding us that death too is an integral part of life don t miss john grisham s new book the exchange after the firm coming soon
