this volume explores the role that european institutions have come to play in regulating national prisons systems the authors introduce and contribute to advancing a new research agenda in international penology europe in prisons which complements the conventional comparative approach prisons in europe the chapters examine the impact if any that institutions such as the european committee for the prevention of torture and inhuman or degrading treatment or punishment and the european court of human rights have had on prison policy throughout europe with contributions from a wide range of countries such as albania austria belgium ireland norway and spain this edited collection offers a wide ranging and authoritative guide to the effects of european institutions on prison policy the impact of covid 19 on prison conditions and penal policy presents the results of a worldwide exchange of information on the impact of covid 19 in prisons it also focuses on the human rights questions that have been raised during the pandemic relating to the treatment of prisoners in institutions for both juveniles and adults worldwide the first part brings together the findings and conclusions of leading prison academics and practitioners presenting national reports with information on the prison system prison population rates how covid 19 was and is managed in prisons and its impact on living conditions inside prisons and on reintegration programmes forty four countries are covered many in europe but also argentina brazil chile colombia peru costa rica canada the usa kenya south africa china india japan australia and new zealand in the second part thematic chapters concentrate explicitly on the impact of the pandemic on the application of international human rights standards in prisons and on worldwide prison population rates the book concludes by drawing out the commonalities and diverging practices between jurisdictions discussing the impact of measures introduced and reflecting on what could be learnt from policies that emerged during the pandemic particular attention is paid to whether reductionist strategies that emerged during the pandemic can be used to counteract mass incarceration and prison overcrowding in the future although the book reflects the situation until mid 2021 after the second and during the third wave of the pandemic it is highly relevant to the current situation as the living conditions in prisons did not change significantly during the following waves which showed high infection rates in particular in the general population but increased vaccination rates too in prisons problems the pandemic raises have an even greater impact than for the general society revealing many notable and interesting changes in prison life and in release programmes this book is essential reading for students and scholars of penology criminology law sociology and public health it will also appeal to criminal justice practitioners and policy makers based on the lived experiences of incarcerated persons and staff this book explores the symbolic significance of prison foodways to normalization autonomy identity construction power group formation and security the book also traces the rationalizations that policy makers attach to prison food from the water and bread diet of the 18th century the contested abolition of alcohol consumption to the current fear surrounding the spread of covid 19 through food distribution in prisons the argument is developed that prison food policies have always reflected how belgian governments have treated imprisoned persons the emphasis on belgian prisons and the discussions on prison foodways situated on a micro and macro level add a unique flavour to prison food scholarship by providing a deeper understanding of a penal culture outside the dominant tradition of anglo saxon and nordic studies consequently the book provides a nuanced conception of prison foodways for penologists sociologists those with interests in wider prison policy and those working on the socio cultural role of food in closed environments the palgrave handbook of prison ethnography provides an expansive overview of the challenges presented by qualitative and particularly ethnographic enquiry the chapters reflect upon the means by which ethnographers aim to gain understanding make sense of what they learn and the way they represent their finished work the handbook offers urgent insights relevant to current trends in the growth of imprisonment worldwide in an era of mass incarceration human centric ethnography provides an important counter to quantitative analysis and the audit culture on which prisons are frequently judged the handbook is divided into four parts part i about prison ethnography assesses methodological theoretical and pragmatic issues related to the use of ethnographic and qualitative enquiry in prisons part ii through prison ethnography considers the significance of ethnographic insights in terms of wider social or political concerns part iii of prison ethnography analyses different aspects of the roles ethnographers take and how they negotiate their research settings part iv for prison ethnography includes contributions that convincingly extend the value of prison ethnography beyond the prison itself bringing together contributions by some of the world s leading scholars in criminology and prison studies this authoritative volume maps out new directions for future research it will be an indispensable resource for practitioners students academics and researchers who use qualitative social research methods to further their understanding of prisons
