uses heidegger s philosophy to critique and remedy world order thinking in international politics bringing together scholars from around the world this first book in the palgrave macmillan transnational history series raises the question of how we can get away from the contemporary language of globalization so as to identify meaningful global ways of defining historical events and processes in the late nineteenth and twentieth centuries within international relations scholarship the nature of international organizations and their relationship with each other and nation states has been widely contested this edited volume brings together a team of experts to shed new light on inter organizational relations in world politics the book covers areas from the rule of law and international security to business and sport through its analysis it demonstrates that just as inter organizational relations themselves are diverse and complex research on this topic should also be pluralistic in order to draw new and valuable results and insights as democracy is perfected the office of president represents more and more closely the inner soul of the people on some great and glorious day the plain folks of the land will reach their heart s desire at last and the white house will be adorned by a downright moron h l mencken the moronarchy is upon us welcome to the dumbocalypse the dumbageddon conspiracy has finally paid off freedumb and dumbocracy have reached their logical conclusion how did we get here we can thank the dunning kruger effect the most powerful and disturbing force in the world today the force of human stupidity the greatest destroyer and wrecker there has ever been come and explore the bizarre world of idiots of the confederacy of dunces of the dunciad globalization and civilizations challenges established assumptions about the nature of civilizations and the supposed inevitability of the conflict between the islamic and western worlds uniquely this edited book critically interrogates the concept of civilization by asking whether it is still valid in the globalized world economy of the twenty first century the first half of the book provides an historical and theoretical context to understand the idea of civilization in political science and demonstrates how the various social economic political and cultural processes of globalization have radically altered perceptions of civilization the second half of the book looks particularly at non western examples of the interaction between globalization and civilization and includes case studies on the arab world islam china india and europe this book investigates the relationship between the international criminal court and africa the icc or the court asking why and how the international criminal justice system has so far largely failed the victims of atrocities in africa the book explores how the court degenerated from a very promising multilateral institution to being an instrumentalised politicised weaponised institution that ended up with the victims being the greatest losers instead of looking at the international criminal court as a recent alternative to a prevailing international criminal justice paradigm this book argues that the court is a manifestation of the same world order that was established by the reconquista in 1492 written from a decolonial perspective the book particularly draws on evidence from zimbabwe in order to demonstrate how the international criminal court is failing the victims of the four crimes that fall under its jurisdiction drawing on the perspectives of victims in particular this book highlights the damage caused within africa by the international criminal justice system and argues for a decolonial conception of justice the book will be of interest to researchers from across african politics international relations law and criminal justice
