rather than reading the catholic epistles in isolation from each other understanding their individual historical situations as the single determinative context for their interpretation this study argues that a proper understanding of these seven letters must equally attend to their collection and placement within the new testament canon resisting the judgment of much of historical critical analysis of the new testament namely that the concept of canon actually obscures the meaning of these texts it is the canonical process by which the texts were composed redacted collected arranged and fixed in a final canonical form that constitutes a necessary interpretive context for these seven letters this study argues that through reception history and paratextual and compositional evidence one can discern a collection consciousness within the catholic epistles such that they should be read and interpreted as an intentional discrete canonical sub collection set within the new testament furthermore the work argues that such collection consciousness though not necessarily in the preview of the original authors being perhaps unforeseen yet not unintended is neither anachronistic to the meaning of the letters nor antagonistic to their composition living in transit being in motion is an actual condition movement is real moreover it is essential because it concerns kinetic events we can insistently perceive that everything changes and moves all living beings undergo experiences revealing flows adaptations and becomings quotidian experiences testify to that directly or indirectly we face reality s movements all the time atoms move planets move animals move rivers move trees move technology moves economy moves the state moves and people move the ontological assertion that reality is all about beings in motion has an anthropological side that must be considered we indeed live in times highly defined by movement and change as we have said everything moves it is inevitable to perceive and face movement and change for that reason it is essential to ethically assess our human role in changing living scenarios and dynamic beings there is mounting empirical evidence that the responsible provision and use of formal financial services have a positive impact on household well being and enterprise performance at the individual level financial inclusion benefits rural households and small producers by facilitating the safe accumulation of assets enabling them to leverage those assets in order to invest in human and physical capital and supporting better risk management the positive effects at the aggregate level are associated with better allocation of scarce resources among different activities despite recent progress on different aspects of financial inclusion in latin america and the caribbean large gaps remain especially in rural areas which have been historically neglected by traditional providers of financial services this book describes how these gaps have evolved recently in five countries costa rica the dominican republic el salvador honduras and mexico that are at different stages of designing and implementing comprehensive financial inclusion strategies then on the basis of a comparative analysis of the institutional architecture available it identifies the main barriers preventing small rural producers from accessing and making effective use of the various financial services on offer with a view to making policy recommendations for overcoming these limitations this edition of international trade outlook for latin america and the caribbean covers 2018 and is divided into three chapters chapter i analyses the impact of divergent global growth and trade tensions on trade in the region chapter ii examines the share of latin america and the caribbean in global trade in minerals and metals the region overall is a net exporter in this sector however given the typically low level of processing of its exports it has the largest share in this category of primary products of all regions in the world finally chapter iii examines whether cross border e commerce has the potential to galvanize and diversify exports from the region cross border e commerce refers to transactions for products and services that are ordered online platform enabled or delivered online this document presented by the economic commission for latin america and the caribbean eclac to its member states at its thirty sixth session provides an analytical complement to the 2030 agenda for sustainable development from a structuralist perspective and from the point of view of the latin american and caribbean countries the proposals made here stem from the need to achieve progressive structural change in order to incorporate more knowledge into production ensure social inclusion and combat the negative impacts of climate change the reflections and proposals for advancing towards a new development pattern are geared to achieving equality and environmental sustainability in these proposals the creation of global and regional public goods and the corresponding domestic policies form the core for expanding the structuralist tradition towards a global keynesianism and a development strategy centred around an environmental big push
